

Colmore Partners named in industry's top 100 firms

26th October 2022

Colmore Partners has been celebrated as one of the best 100 firms in the UK's professional financial planning community.

We have been named in the annual Citywire New Model Adviser Top 100 financial planning firms for the first time.

Entrants to the Top 100 are awarded points on criteria approved by AKG, an independent provider of assessment, ratings, information and market assistance to the financial services industry. It looks for firms that deliver excellent advice, support their clients and the wider community, and take good care of their staff.

Our Managing Director, Richard Meek, has spoken of his pride in the achievement, coming less than two years since we launched.

He said: "It is a huge honour to be named in Citywire's Top 100 firms. We took part in a substantial submission process which included an audit of our business processes, covering everything from the way we train and develop our people to how rigorous our research procedures are.

"Being part of the final list provides further credibility that we are one of the leaders in our field. It not only supports that we are doing things properly but also recognises what our team has already achieved in a short space of time.

"We know there is much more still to come and we are committed to continuing to develop our people, and further enhancing both our proposition and the level of service we provide to our clients."